Administrative/biographical history

Aamer Hussein was born in 1955 in Karachi. He lived in Pakistan until 1968, after which he attended university in India. In 1970 he came to the UK, where he studied at SOAS. After graduating he worked as a researcher for films and television, but in the 1980s he began to write full time. He has written books of short stories and other fiction, and has edited and contributed to other publications. In the 1990s he began to lecture and teach literature and creative writing.

Immediate source of acquisition

SALIDAA deposited part of their archive with Brunel University Special Collections.

Scope and content

The collection is concerned with fiction written by Aamer Hussein. There are photocopies and printouts of reviews of his work. The main body of the collection consists of copies of some of his stories and excerpts from his fiction. Occasionally they are annotated, and in a few cases we have early versions of items later published in a different form.
